Neuro Aqua for Stroke Survivors

Neuro Aqua Therapy (NAT) was coined and created by the Managing Director (Ian Wee) at Perth Integrated Health (PIH) some seven years ago. This has been employed with great success over the past four years for our patients who suffer from chronic / prolonged neuromuscular conditions. All of the areas that can be targeted on the treatment table can be accessed in the water.

The benefits of this form of rehabilitation therapy come from the treatment in the gravity-minimal environment that water provides. This leads to the practitioner being able to make gains with the condition faster with much less pain for the client. It also means more mobility for the client who has an already weakened neuromuscular tone and ability.

For a stroke survivor there may be areas where the body is hypersensitive or contracted. The use of NAT is extremely beneficial for these conditions. Stroke survivors can also benefit from the confidence exercising in water can bring with the buoyancy that it provides.

Clients can be much more willing to mobilise in water where there are fewer opportunities for falling and feeling unsafe during the course of exercise.

The evidence for the use of Neuro Aqua in stroke rehabilitation is overwhelming and can be made accessible to all clients with stroke. NAT is available at Perth Integrated Health at our Performance Enhancement Clinic at the Melville Aquatic Fitness Centre. Bookings and enquiries can be made on: 9364 8626

Great opportunity for more therapy

Perth Integrated Health (PIH) is a group of occupational therapists and practitioners who work in private practice at Balcatta and Melville. They are committed to enhancing the lives of all people they work with.

Our StrokeConnect members have the unique opportunity to receive a free initial assessment with Perth Integrated Health. Whether you have problems with balance, strength or general activities of daily living they may be able to help you. You can then access their services under Better Access through Medicare. If you would like to take up this opportunity please call PIH on 92405266 and quote StrokeConnect National Stroke Foundation WA. Alternately if you have any questions please call the WA office on 93463574.
